"The people — the people — are the rightful masters of both Congresses, and courts — not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who pervert it." – Abraham Lincoln (1859) "This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing Government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it." - Abraham Lincoln in his first inaugural address (1861) In "What Then Must We Do?: The Lockean Solution to Ending Obama's Tyranny," Kevin Groenhagen argues that the liberties of the American people are under an unprecedented attack from the Obama administration and his Socialist Coalition. According to the author, impeachment is not a viable option to end this attack since the Democrats can block conviction in the U.S. Senate. Other remedies designed to reestablish our Constitutional Republic, such as Mark R. Levin's "Liberty Amendments," would simply take too long to enact. Instead, Groenhagen proposes that constitutionalists follow John Locke's prescription for returning power to the American people through the nonviolent dissolution of the federal government. Using this route, a majority of the people can place the old form of government, i.e., our Constitutional Republic, in new hands.
