Two Years and Four Months in a Lunatic Asylum: My Life Inside A Closed World From August 20th, 1863 to December 20th, 1865. Rev. H. Chase

"I regard this as the unvarnished statement of facts. In my opinion this narrative should be printed and widely circulated." -Chas. Devol, M.D.

"I know men in the asylum who were thrown in there by their friends, under some peculiar influence, who have been there from six to fifteen years; and they are the same now as when they entered it, not insane, but perhaps a little eccentric, or may entertain some notions on religion or philosophy that are not regarded orthodox. They are in good health, perfectly harmless, and, so far as I could judge, would make better inhabitants than one-fourth of the people that are at large.

"The question now arises--"What would you have done to remedy the evil of putting men and women in the asylum that should never go there?" My answer is, that I would so change the laws that two inexperienced quack doctors could not govern the destinies of the people of a whole county. I would first require that those men who are to decide on the fate of their neighbors should be men of experience and discretion, and that there should be at least five of them in a county, chosen by the people for that purpose; I would also require that the patient be brought before a jury of twelve men, who shall decide the matter after the five doctors have examined the patient and given their opinions.

"I would annihilate that argument so often used to induce the ignorant and the innocent to become willing to go to that den of death!"
